Celebrating 100 Years of Women’s Suffrage

ADELINA “NINA” OTERO WARREN (1881-1965)
A force in the women’s suffrage movement who rallied Spanish and English-speaking communities in New Mexico to ratify the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution in 1920. Later she became the first Latina to run for Congress. A suffragist, educator, businesswoman, public official and author, she worked tirelessly to preserve the state’s diverse cultural heritage.
